Animal Transportation

Travelling with pets

Question - Can I travel with a pet?

Answer - Harmless, domesticated dogs, cats, and birds can travel as excess baggage on the same flight from most countries. All other animals must be transported as cargo. Click <https://www.qatarairways.com/en-qa/help/faq.html#1003076-are-there-any-health-breed-or-age-restrictions> to see the details of restricted animal breeds. When connecting to a Qatar Airways flight from another airline, pets must travel separately as cargo and will not be accepted as excess baggage. Transporting animals is subject to local country regulations. For more information, contact your local Qatar Airways office, or visit <http://www.qrcargo.com/> for more information about transporting animals as cargo. For contact details of Qatar Airways cargo offices, please visit the link: <http://www.qrcargo.com/officeList?address> Qatar Airways also accepts service dog(s) in the passenger cabin on specific regulated routes (Please see Article 18 of the <https://www.qatarairways.com/en/legal/conditions-of-carriage.html>). Emotional support dogs do not qualify as service dogs and are not accepted in the cabin.

Question - How many pets can I travel with?

Answer - You may travel with one (1) falcon in cabin per passenger. There is a limit of six (6) falcons on narrow body aircraft and twelve (12) falcons on wide body aircraft allowed in the Economy Class cabin. You may also travel with one up to two (2) service dogs in the cabin per passenger. There is no limit to the number of pets that can travel as checked baggage, however there may be weight or space limitations based on aircraft type. Some countries don't allow the transport of animals as checked baggage. Please note that the transportation of animals is subject to local country regulations. Please ensure you allow sufficient time to check with the local authorities of your departing and arriving countries for their respective regulations and procedures for transporting animals. Also, when connecting to a Qatar Airways flight from another airline, pets must travel separately as cargo and will not be accepted as excess baggage.

Question - Can my service dog travel in the cabin with me?

Answer - Qatar Airways only permits the carriage of service dog(s) on Qatar Airways operated flights and on specific regulated routes (Please see Article 18 of the <https://www.qatarairways.com/en/legal/conditions-of-carriage.html>). All other categories of animals may be transported within the aircraft hold (AVI) after collection of the applicable charges. Where countries permit more than 1 dog to be carried in the cabin, there will be a limit of up to 2 dogs per passenger. Qatar Airways' procedure on its acceptance of live animals complies entirely with the IATA Live Animals Regulations, as well as with any additional government regulations required by the country of origin, transit and destination. Definition: A service animal is a dog, regardless of breed or type, which is individually trained to do work or perform tasks for the benefit of a qualified individual with a disability, including a physical, sensory, psychiatric, intellectual, or other mental disability. Emotional support dogs do not qualify as service dogs and are not accepted in the cabin. Documentation requirements: Passengers must have the health documentation and other certifications required by the destination country. Passengers traveling to and from the USA are required to complete the hardcopy or electronic version of DOT's "U.S. Department of Transportation Service Animal Air Transportation Form" as well as U.S. Department of Transportation Service Animal Relief Attestation" as a condition of transportation (for flights over 8 hours). <https://> www.qatarairways.com/content/dam/documents/legal/DOT-Service-Animal-Air-Transportation-Form.pdf <https://www.qatarairways.com/content/dam/documents/legal/DOT-Service-Animal-Relief-Attestation-Form.pdf>

Containment: Service dogs must fit on their handler's lap or within its handler's foot space on the aircraft. The service dog must be harnessed, leashed or otherwise tethered while onboard our aircraft and while in transit at Hamad International Airport. Animals do not normally require additional feeding for fairly long periods. However, it is the responsibility of the accompanying owner to provide food and water for the animal. Care must be taken that the food and water containers are not overfilled in order to prevent spillage. We recommend the use of a safety harness for the dog for use during take-off, landing, or whenever the 'fasten seat belt' sign is illuminated.

Advance notice: Passengers must notify Qatar Airways at least 48 hours before departure.

Check-in: Passengers can check-in online. However, passengers checking in at the airport must check-in for the flight 1 hour prior to the standard time.

Proof that accompanying animal is a service dog: Provide evidence at the time of reservation or at the time of check-in at the airport that the accompanying dog is a service dog, fully trained and is at least four (4) months old (e.g. an identification card, other written documentation or tag) and other certifications by the service dog's licensed veterinarian and current vaccination record. For flights to and from the USA, a signed hard copy of the "U.S. Department of Transportation Service Animal Air Transportation Form" is required.

Flight-length restriction: Provide evidence that the accompanying dog will not need to relieve itself during the flight or that you can adequately manage the dog's waste without creating any health and sanitation issue on the flight. You must bring whatever absorbent or other material required for this purpose. We encourage you to prepare the dog for the flight by exercising the dog and limiting its fluid intake before the flight.

For flights to and from the USA, passengers must provide the form "U.S. Department of Transportation Service Animal Relief Attestation" as a condition of transportation.

Age and weight restrictions: Some age restrictions may apply for travel to a certain destination. There is no weight restriction. The service dog, however, cannot be seated where it may obstruct aisle or emergency exit area or affect leg space in front of the passenger sitting next to you. If your service dog cannot be accommodated at your seat location then we will offer you another seat if available on the aircraft.

Question - What does a scam email alert for booking confirmations look like?

Answer - It has been reported that some customers have received fraudulent emails that appear to be from Qatar Airways and refer to booking confirmations. These emails typically ask the recipient to click on a link to print or cancel the booking. How you can recognize phishing scams or online fraud? There are a few clues that can help our customers identify fraudulent email messages (also known as phishing scams). What does a phishing email look like?

Phishing emails are intended to steal your personal data. The email will typically prompt you for personal data or direct you to a website to log into your account.

Emails might appear to come from Qatar Airways or Privilege Club. The email address could even appear to be from a qatarairways.com or qmiles.com address.

Emails might appear to be from someone you know.

They might include official-looking Qatar Airways or Privilege Club logos and other information taken directly from qatarairways.com or qmiles.com. Phishing emails might include convincing details about your personal information that the scammer found on your social networking page(s).

They might include links to spoofed websites where you are asked to provide your account login details. The spoofed website might look similar to a website from Qatar Airways or Privilege Club.

What you can do to protect yourself from online fraud:

Be cautious of phishing websites that appear similar to the official Qatar Airways website and to exercise caution in sharing your personal details online.

Exercise discretion when revealing personal data to unverified sources.

Verify any suspicious emails or phone calls directly with the business and, if necessary, lodge a police report immediately.

Not interact with any suspicious emails; we advise you not to click any links within them, not to reply to them, and not to share any further information with their sender. You may also safely and permanently delete these type of emails.

Before clicking on a link in the email, verify that the website address displayed matches the actual link and is not a "masked" website.

Ensure that your browser has opened a genuine qatarairways.com or qmiles.com website address. Online fraudsters or scammers often use web addresses that closely resemble the name of a well-known company but are slightly altered by adding, omitting or transposing letters.

Carbon Offsetting

Carbon Calculations

Question - How is the contribution of cargo weight taken into account?

Answer - As part of the calculation method, the carbon calculator subtracts the emissions associated with cargo carried on a passenger flight so that only the emissions attributable to the passengers are included.

Question - Why are emissions calculations greater if I travel in First or Business Class?

Answer - First Class and Business Class seating configurations take up more space and weight on an aircraft than Economy Class seating. Based on the International Civil Aviation Organization's recommendations, the emissions associated with First and Business Class travel are estimated to be double the emissions in Economy Class.

Question - Which data is used to calculate CO2 emissions?

Answer - City pair – to derive distance and fuel consumption per flight legNumber of seats – to derive load factor (needed for per passenger calculation)Number of passengers transported – to derive load factorFuel usage – per city pairPassenger weight – using 100 kg standard value as per International Civil Aviation OrganizationFreight weight (belly cargo weight) – to allocate fuel usage between passengers and belly cargoTravel class – to calculate the CO2 emissions per travel class between Economy and Premium Class. In the case of Premium Class, the emissions are doubled.Carbon emission factor – 1 kg of jet fuel translates into 3.160 kg of CO2. Each airline participating in the IATA carbon offset program uses its own actual fuel consumption data from passenger aircraft journeys to maximise the accuracy of the emissions calculation used to offset an individual passenger's flight. Hence, much of the information normally required to accurately estimate emissions (e.g. when using modelled data averages and emission factors) are not necessary and do not apply to the IATA carbon calculator methodology. This information includes distance travelled and uplift factors for non-direct routing and delays.Until the available research on radiative forcing becomes more conclusive, IATA recommends that airlines use a Radiative Forcing Index of 1.0.For more information visit IATA FAQs: https://www.iata.org/contentassets/922ebc4cbcd24c4d9fd55933e7070947/icop_faq_general-for-airline-participants.pdf

Question - How do you calculate emissions from flights?

Answer - The combustion of 1 kg of jet fuel in an aircraft engine produces 3.160 kg of carbon dioxide (CO2). However, the volume released per flight is based on a number of factors, such as aircraft efficiency and maintenance, distance travelled, the load carried (passengers and cargo) and weather conditions.Although there are several methods to calculate carbon emissions from a flight, airlines participating in the IATA carbon offset program use a methodology based on the one developed by the United Nation's International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO).IATA has developed this concept further by creating a tool that allows airlines to use their own verified data on fuel burn, passenger and cargo weights, seat configurations and load factors. This tool generates the most accurate calculation of CO2 emissions per passenger yet developed.

Note: All values are the averages across all flights and aircraft types for the city pair flown.

Question - How has the IATA carbon calculator been independently endorsed?

Answer - The Quality Assurance Standard has reviewed and approved the methodology used to calculate emissions using the airline's data input. Each airline participating in the IATA carbon offset program is subject to independent auditing by the Quality Assurance Standard to ensure valid data entry and compliance with the approved methodology.For more information visit <https://qasaudit.com>

Question - How is the carbon calculator data updated?

Answer - The carbon calculator is updated annually. However, if a new aircraft enters service or a new route is flown, it will be updated more frequently. In case of a new route, the airline can extrapolate carbon emissions from similar routes (aircraft types and distance) or await the collection of route-specific information over a period of one year.

Question - Does the carbon calculator take into account the impact of gases other than CO₂ gases?

Answer - Research by the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change indicates that non-carbon dioxide (CO₂) gases, such as water vapour (condensation trails) and nitrogen oxides (NO_x), released at altitude by aircraft have additional global warming impacts beyond those of the CO₂ emissions alone. However, the relative scale of their impact is uncertain. When the international scientific community agrees on the emission factors for non-CO₂ gases released by aircraft and the United Nations endorses this, the carbon calculator will be updated accordingly.

Question - How is the type of aircraft taken into account in the carbon calculation?

Answer - Since different aircraft have different characteristics, for example fuel efficiency or seat configurations, and since more than one aircraft type may be used in one route, the weighted averages are calculated.

Question - How are the emissions calculated for journeys involving multiple flights?

Answer - The emissions for each leg of the journey are calculated and added together to determine the total carbon dioxide (CO₂) emissions for the entire trip.

Climate Change and Offsetting

Question - What type of carbon credits are allowed under the IATA carbon offset program?

Answer - Airlines participating in the IATA carbon offset program typically offer carbon credits stemming from renewable energy or other high-quality projects that follow the stringent quality requirements of the Quality Assurance Standard (QAS). Approved offsets must carry one of the following high-quality certificates: Certified Emission Reductions (CERs) - issued under the Clean Development Mechanism (CDM). Voluntary Emission Reductions (VERs) - Gold Standard or Voluntary Carbon Standard (VCS) version 2007 onwards. Approved REDD+ methodology projects - based on sustainable land use. The following projects are not allowed to be offered under the IATA carbon offset program: Hydropower projects generating more than 20 megawatts. Projects using hydrofluorocarbon-23 (HFC23). Forestry offset projects not based on sustainable REDD+ project methodologies. Question - What is carbon offsetting?

Answer - Climate change is one of the biggest threats of our time. Our everyday actions, like using electrical equipment, heating or cooling our homes, driving a car, and flying, consume energy and produce greenhouse gas emissions. These greenhouse gas emissions, most commonly carbon dioxide (CO₂), are believed to contribute to and accelerate climate change. Governments, businesses and individuals all have a responsibility to reduce the carbon emissions they produce. As well as reducing carbon emissions, it is possible to compensate for the environmental impact associated with your carbon emissions by making a financial contribution to environmental and social projects. This is known as "carbon offsetting". More and more individuals and businesses are volunteering to offset their emissions. Offsetting can reduce the impact of our actions and help raise awareness of the issue.

Question - How can flying impact the environment?

Answer - Aviation is the only human enterprise that emits pollutants directly into the upper atmosphere. According to the UN Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, aviation accounts for approximately two per cent of total man-made carbon dioxide (CO₂) emissions. CO₂ is one of the major greenhouse gases that contribute to climate change.

Question - What are carbon credits?

Answer - Through the carbon offsetting scheme, passengers can purchase carbon credits generated by certified environmental and social projects in developing countries that are verified to offset greenhouse gas emissions. A carbon credit is a permit that represents one tonne of carbon dioxide (CO₂) that has either been removed from the atmosphere or prevented from being emitted. These carbon credits are then "retired" on an official register to ensure that they cannot be sold or used again. Carbon credits create a market for offsetting greenhouse gas emissions by giving a monetary value to the cost of polluting the air. There are two principal types of carbon credits: certified emission reductions (CERs) and voluntary emission reductions (VERs). CERs are backed by the United Nations. VERs are backed by recognised quality standards, such as the Voluntary Carbon Standard (VCS) and the Gold Standard. VERs play an important role in emission projects with high sustainable development benefits.

Question - What is the role of carbon offsetting?

Answer - Carbon offsetting should be considered as one of a combination of tools available to an individual or organisation to reduce greenhouse gas emissions. Other methods include selecting renewable energy options, improving energy efficiency at home and work, avoiding unnecessary journeys using motorised transport, cycling to work, recycling and conserving energy by turning off lights, and reducing the use of heating or air conditioning.

Question - What is carbon offsetting for aviation?

Answer - Passengers can offset the emissions generated by their flight. The principle is that emissions for a flight are divided amongst the passengers. Each passenger can therefore pay to offset the emissions caused by their share of the flight's emissions. Passengers can offset their emissions by contributing to carbon offset projects through investment in carbon credits.

Question - Is offsetting the carbon emissions from my flight compulsory?

Answer - No, it is entirely voluntary. As a passenger, you are free to choose whether or not to offset the emissions from your flight.

Co-benefits

Question - What are the co-benefits of carbon offsetting?

Answer - Carbon offsets as a global mechanism were originally conceived as a means to not only provide GHG reduction benefits but also co-benefits to the communities in the vicinity of carbon offset projects. Co-benefits improve social, economic, and/or ecological outcomes related to the implementation of a carbon offset project. Typical co-benefits include improving community employment opportunities, air or water quality, biodiversity, and biological habitat conservation, energy access, and access to community health and education services.

Financial Information

Question - Will I be refunded if I purchase an offset but subsequently do not travel?

Answer - To purchase a carbon offset is to make a project contribution and, hence, if a passenger pays for an offset but does not travel, no refund is possible.

Question - Do airlines charge an administration fee or mark-up on passengers' offset contribution?

Answer - Unlike many other offset programs, airlines participating in the IATA carbon offset program do not charge an administration fee or mark-up on the offset price paid by the passenger. Airlines recognise that passengers are making a voluntary donation in order to improve the environment and, hence, do not profit from their contributions. In fact, all administration costs involved in the IATA carbon offset program, including website re-development, carbon emission data collection and carbon purchasing, are borne by the airlines.

Question - Why do different offset providers give different prices to offset the same emissions?

Answer - The price of carbon offsets depends on two main factors: market conditions and quality. Carbon credits are a tradable commodity and, thus, when demand is high during periods of strong economic growth, offset prices rise and vice versa. In order to ensure strong passenger participation, airlines participating in the IATA carbon offset program only invest in offsets of the highest quality that have been delivered and independently verified by the United Nations or other standard setting organisations, such as the Voluntary Carbon Standard (VCS) or Gold Standard.

Question - Why does the price for offsetting the same journey change over time?

Answer - Carbon credits are a tradable commodity and, hence, the price per tonne reflects the cost on the date the credits are purchased. Carbon credit prices change due to market conditions and are also subject to fluctuating currency exchange rates. Airlines participating in the IATA carbon offset program will endeavor to ensure that these price changes are kept to a minimum.

Offset Program Approval

Question - Has the IATA carbon offset program been independently approved?

Answer - Each airline participating in the IATA carbon offset program has been approved by the Quality Assurance Standard. The program has been shown to meet the requirements of the scheme, including environmental integrity, emissions calculation methodology, clear and transparent pricing, accurate marketing material and consumer information. Car rental Question - What is the car booking cancellation policy?

Answer - The cancellation policy can be found on rentalcars.com or during the booking process under 'Important Information'. You can refer to the following, depending on the type of car booking: Fully paid at the time of booking: Can be cancelled online free of charge up to 48 hours before the start of the rental. Reservations cancelled within 48 hours of the start of the rental will be charged a fee equal to the cost of a 3-day rental. Cancellation fees will never be greater than the cost of the actual car rental. Deposit booking: Cancellations made more than 48 hours before the start of the rental will be charged a fee equal to the deposit amount. Reservations cancelled within 48 hours of the start of the rental will be charged a fee equal to the cost of a 3-day rental or the deposit amount, whichever is greater. No-shows: This is where the vehicle cannot be picked up due to: insufficient documentation; failure to provide a valid credit card containing sufficient funds to cover the deposit amount; and/or failure to collect the car at the specified time/date. Refunds will not be given for no-shows. Please note that some car rental companies may also have a supplementary cancellation policy; please ensure you check the terms and conditions of your rental.

Question - What do I need to take to collect the car?

Answer - At pick-up, the main driver must have a payment card in their name with enough available funds to cover the excess / deposit amount and to pay for local fees, extra equipment and anything additionally purchased at the car hire counter. The main driver and any additional drivers will need to provide a full driving licence in their name, along with their rentalcars.com Voucher / eVoucher, which is issued after your booking is confirmed.

Question - What are the driving licence requirements?

Answer - At the counter, every driver must present a driving licence that they have held for at least one year (often two years). Expired or provisional licences will not be accepted. The counter staff may also need to check whether you have any endorsements/penalty points on your licence. If you do have any endorsements, or your licence has ever been revoked, please contact us (rentalcars.com) as soon as possible, as this might limit your hiring options. If you're hiring a car abroad, please check your voucher to see if you need an International Driving Permit (often referred to as an International Driving Licence) as well as your national driving licence.

Question - How do I amend my car booking or add my flight number?

Answer - You can amend your booking on rentalcars.com using the 'Amend Booking' facility. Simply log in, click on 'My Booking' or 'My Account' and make the changes you want. There are no administrative fees to amend / change bookings. However, changing your booking may trigger a Rate / Price change, or a charge which may be due from a material change, such as the duration or car type. You can also amend / add your flight number here.

Question - What is the fuel policy?

Answer - Each car rental company has its own fuel policy, which is displayed during the booking process. Your fuel policy will be displayed on your confirmation voucher and on the rental agreement at the car hire counter. If you are renting for 3 days or less, you should highlight this to the car rental company at the time of renting in case they can work out an alternative fuel plan for you. Most of the car rental companies require a deposit or payment at the start of the rental to cover fuel. The deposit will be refunded upon returning the car, provided that the car is returned in accordance with the policy.

Question - What can I do if I have not received my car rental confirmation voucher?

Answer - You can monitor and review the status of your car rental booking at any time by logging in to 'My Booking' on rentalcars.com. Confirmation vouchers will be available once full payment has been received.

Question - What do I need to do if I plan to travel outside the country?

Answer - Customers whose travel plans include driving outside the country of rental (or crossing borders or travelling to different islands within the same country) must inform the service provider before they pick the car up. Restrictions may apply for certain countries which may require the customer to pay additional fees. In some cases, it may be necessary to purchase additional insurance cover, which would need to be paid for at the car hire counter. Please contact rentalcars.com in order to check if this applies in your case.

Question - How do I cancel my car booking?

Answer - To cancel your car booking online, please visit rentalcars.com and log in to the 'Amend/Cancel Booking' facility, and click on 'Cancel Booking'. Otherwise, please contact rentalcars.com to cancel your booking.

Question - Are there any additional charges to be paid at the rental counter?

Answer - Whilst rentalcars.com provides inclusive rates, there are occasions where there will be fees payable at the car hire counter. Any Mandatory Local Charges (non extras) will be clearly shown during the booking process and in your rental documentation. All local charges are paid directly to the car hire company on signing the rental agreement. These could include charges such as: facility charge and winterisation fee etc. in addition to any other items that you choose at the counter.

Question - Will I be charged if I want to pick the car up outside normal working hours?

Answer - If you require the car to be available outside normal office hours, be it for pick-up or drop-off, the car hire company will arrange for a member of staff to be available. Prior notification is required for this service and it will incur an additional fee.

Question - What is an excess?

Answer - Excess is the amount that you will be liable for in case of accidental damage. This is standard practice with all car hire companies. A security deposit, normally equal to the excess amount, will be blocked on / taken from the main driver's payment card. This will be held for the duration of the rental and can take up to 7 working days to be released after the rental is completed. It may be possible to reduce the excess on the car by purchasing additional coverage from the car hire company at their counter or purchasing the excess cover products online during the booking process.

Question - Why do I need to sign an agreement at the car rental counter?

Answer - Rentalcars.com acts as a car rental agent. Bookings made through this website are subject to their terms and conditions. These cover your agreement with rentalcars.com and will be provided with your rental documentation. The actual rental of your vehicle will then be subject to the law of the country in which it is supplied to you and for this reason, you will be required to sign a rental contract with the rental company. You will need to verify that you understand (and agree to) the terms and conditions of the contract.

Question - How do I pay for additional equipment?

Answer - All additional extras are paid for at the rental counter and exclude VAT. If you require additional extras (including but not limited to: child seats; GPS; additional drivers; snow chains; snow tyres and ski racks) simply log in on rentalcars.com, and click on 'Amend Booking' to add the extras you require. If you have any additional requirements, please include them in your booking request. However, availability cannot be guaranteed.

Question - What insurance does my car rental include?

Answer - All rental cars must have Collision Damage Waiver (CDW) and Theft Protection (TP). Both policies will be either: included in the rentalcars.com package, or purchasable from the car hire company, or provided by the customer's credit card company. The type of cover will depend on the car hire company and the location; but it will be clearly shown in the terms and conditions during the booking process, and also on the confirmation voucher.

Question - What are handheld PEDs?

Answer - Qatar Airways' definition of a handheld PED (portable electronic device) is a gadget that is relatively smaller in size and less than 1 kg or 2.2 lbs in weight. Laptops and notebook computers do not qualify as handheld devices as these are heavier than 1 kg or 2.2 lbs.

A new feature has been introduced whereby the tier renewal criteria will be lower than the tier upgrade criteria. This means that members will need less Qpoints to renew than to upgrade making it easier to retain your tier level. Another new feature has been introduced where Qpoints earned by a member in the last 24 months will be considered just in case the member has not earned sufficient Qpoints for renewal within the last 12 months. To view the number of Qpoints required to upgrade or retain your membership tier, <http://www.qatarairways.com/PrivilegeClub/qpoints%20new.page>

Question - How does the upgrade qualification criteria benefit me?

Answer - The upgrade qualification criteria benefits members as your Qpoints balance is never reset to zero and it takes into account all the Qpoints you have earned within any 12 month period. This means that you can be eligible for a tier upgrade all year round.

Two-factor authentication

Question - I have not received my one-time pin via SMS or email. What can I do?

Answer - Qatar Airways Privilege Club members may receive a one-time pin via SMS, email or both. If a member does not receive an SMS, it is possible that they opted to receive an email in their settings. The member can opt to have their one-time pin resent, from the verification screen. Ensure your contact number is up-to-date in your Qatar Airways Privilege Club account, and check your email spam or junk folders. If a British Airways Executive Club member does not receive a one-time pin via SMS, they can opt to have it resent from the verification screen. If they do not receive a verification SMS thereafter, they can use the secure recovery code that they received and saved, when they first set up two-factor authentication. Failing that, they can visit the help page or contact British Airways Executive Club.

Question - What is two-factor authentication?

Answer - Two-factor authentication, also known as multi-factor authentication, is used as an additional layer of protection to ensure the security of online accounts in addition to usernames and passwords. A two-factor authentication process usually involves sending a one-time pin to a user via an SMS or email. The member must fill in their one-time pin when prompted to, on a website or mobile app, to verify that they are the person accessing their account. Both Qatar Airways Privilege Club and British Airways Executive Club make use of two-factor authentication to protect their members' accounts and members may be asked to complete both Privilege Club and British Airways two-factor authentication measures when linking their accounts, moving or spending Avios.

Question - Do I need to set up two-factor authentication?

Answer - For Qatar Airways Privilege Club members, two-factor authentication is set up automatically, when a member registers for a Qatar Airways Privilege Club account by means of a One-Time Password (OTP). Privilege Club members may choose when to complete their two-factor authentication. If they would like to complete additional security processes either when they log in or carry out transactions, they can visit their profile <https://www.qatarairways.com/en-qa/Privilege-Club/postLogin/dashboardqrpcuser/my-profile/overview.html> to update their settings. More information on Qatar Airways Privilege Club OTP can be found <https://qatarairways.zendesk.com/hc/en-us/sections/204159217-Privilege-Club-OTP-One-Time-Password->. British Airways Executive Club members must manually set up two-factor authentication when linking their British Airways Executive Club account to their Qatar Airways Privilege Club account. They will be prompted to enter their British Airways Executive Club login details and register a mobile phone number, which their one-time pins will be sent to via SMS. They will also be asked to save a secure recovery code, which will be used in case they no longer use the mobile phone number that was registered when they set up two-factor authentication.

Question - When do I need to complete a two-factor authentication process?

Answer - Depending on the preferences selected in their Qatar Airways Privilege Club account, members may be prompted to complete the Qatar Airways two-factor authentication process when linking their Qatar Airways Privilege Club and British Airways Executive Club accounts. They may also be prompted to complete the process when moving Avios from their Qatar Airways Privilege Club account to their British Airways Executive Club account, using the Combine Avios feature. British Airways Executive Club members will be prompted to complete the British Airways two-factor authentication process when linking their Qatar Airways Privilege Club and British Airways Executive Club accounts. They may also be prompted to complete the process when moving Avios from their British Airways Executive Club account to their Qatar Airways Privilege Club account, using the Combine Avios feature, and when spending Avios from their British Airways Executive Club account.

Special Assistance

Special Services

Question - What is the policy on personal wheelchairs?

Answer - Wheelchairs are available for use at all airport locations and can help in transferring you from one point to the other within the airport throughout your journey. You may submit a special service request for a wheelchair at the time of booking or through the <https://booking.qatarairways.com/nsp/views/retrievePnr.xhtml> feature online, or by contacting your local Qatar Airways office at least 48 hours prior to departure. If you intend to travel with your own wheelchair or use other mobility aid then please inform us either at the seat booking stage or after you have made your booking. We will carry your wheelchair or mobility aid free of charge. A list of our office contact details can be found <https://www.qatarairways.com/en/help.html>. The following is pertinent with respect to mobility aids: You will be able to use your personal wheelchair or mobility aid wherever possible. However, another wheelchair will be used to take you to your allocated seat on the aircraft. Battery powered wheelchairs and mobility aids will be accepted as checked baggage and kept in the aircraft hold. We will not accept transport of a damaged or leaking battery. Please provide sufficient details about your wheelchair/mobility aid and batteries to our staff prior to travel. This will enable our staff to better assist you as well as to take adequate safety measures. Weight and dimension allowance of mobility aids on board: Two pieces of Mobility Equipment per person will be carried free of charge as checked baggage in addition to your other checked baggage, provided that: Each piece does not exceed 32kg, except mobility equipment which can travel in the upright position in the free wheel mode (for example, an electric wheelchair); Items above 32kg which cannot travel in the upright position in free wheel mode must be carried as freight at standard freight rates; The equipment must be for your own use and adhere to the dimensions. The folded dimensions are length: 890mm X width: 415mm X 270mm. If you wish to check-in more than two pieces of Mobility Equipment, the additional pieces will form part of your checked baggage allowance and excess charges will apply if your applicable allowance is exceeded. Mobility aids include (but are not limited to) items such as wheelchairs (day or sports), electric wheelchairs and electric scooters. Mobility aid(s) may also include segways (which are electric scooter devices) provided that the segway is required by a passenger with mobility impairment to assist the passenger with their mobility impairment. 'Assistive Devices' include (but are not limited to) items such as walking frames, hoists, shower chairs and commodes. Wheelchairs weighing more than 75kg There is no restriction on the maximum allowable weight of wheelchairs, when passengers with reduced mobility wish to check in their own wheelchairs. However, due to safety concerns, a single piece of checked baggage must not weigh more than 75kg; Thus, in case the wheelchair can be disassembled, each individual piece must weigh less than 75kg. Flights to and from U.S. Our aircraft have storage space in the passenger cabin for one folding / collapsible or 'manual' wheelchair or other mobility aids such as canes, crutches and walkers. The space is allocated on a first-come-first-serve basis. If space is not available in the passenger cabin, your wheelchair or mobility aid will be carried in the aircraft hold as checked baggage. Wheelchairs with spillable batteries will be accepted only on U.S. flights.

Question - What is the allergy policy on Qatar Airways?

Answer - We do our best to accommodate passengers with special allergy needs. However, as our flights are open to the public, we cannot guarantee an allergen-free environment. If you or someone you are travelling with is allergic or sensitive to products (i.e. food, perfumes, fragrances, etc.) that may be found in an aircraft cabin, please take note of our allergy policy below. Allergies can be of two types i.e. mild allergy or severe/hyper allergy. I. Customers with a history of a mild-allergy Are responsible for carrying any necessary medication with them on-board. May be required to sign a waiver of liability (this does not apply to customers travelling to/from the US). II. Customers with a history of a severe or hyper-allergy Must provide a completed medical information form (MEDIF) at the time of reservation or at least 48 hours prior to the scheduled departure time to allow adequate time for the form to be approved by Qatar Airways. Are responsible for carrying any necessary medication with them on-board. May be required to sign a waiver of liability. May bring their own meals on-board the aircraft in case they need to be certain of an allergen-free meal. Because of the risk for contamination and limited aircraft facilities, Qatar Airways is unable to refrigerate or heat such meals. Meals should be free of strong odour/smell to avoid inconvenience to other customers. Quarantine regulations for some countries require that any food brought on-board by a customer must be consumed or left on-board. For Canadian itineraries, the following requirements need to be complied with: Passengers should notify the airline of their allergy 96 hours prior to departure. This will allow the passenger 48 hours to provide the information or documents, after which the carrier may take up to 48 additional hours to assess the request for assistance. If the passenger does not provide the necessary advance notice, documents or information, we will make every reasonable effort to provide assistance. What counts as reasonable efforts will depend on the particular situation and severity of the allergy. Passengers with severe allergies will be allowed to pre-board. We will provide a buffer zone by: Seating the passenger in a bank of seats where the allergen is not located and that does not face the bank of seats where the allergen is located. Note – While we do our best to mitigate your exposure, we cannot guarantee an allergy-free environment or that no allergic reactions will occur. Your baby may cry on take-off and landing because of air pressure in the ears as cabin pressure adjusts to the altitude. This is normal. By giving your baby a bottle or breastfeeding at this time, you will help to ease the pressure in his or her ears. We also suggest that you bring your own infant meals and snacks if your baby has a special meal requirement. Qatar Airways provides pre-packaged baby food for infants up to two years. This may be a non-vegetarian meal. If you would like select a Baby Meal for your infant prior to travel, please contact Qatar Airways offices to add the request in your booking. When you require the baby meal on-board please ask your cabin crew for assistance.

Question - What kind of infant car seats are allowed onboard?

Answer - If you are travelling with an infant and have purchased a separate seat for the infant, the following types of car seats are acceptable onboard:

1. Car seats that are approved for use in aircraft by JAA authority, the FAA or Transport Canada (based on a national technical standard); these are marked accordingly.
2. Car seats approved for use in motor vehicles and aircraft according to US FMVSS No 213 and are manufactured to these standards on or after February 26, 1985. US approved car seats manufactured after this date must bear the following labels in RED lettering: "THIS CHILD RESTRAINT SYSTEM CONFORMS TO ALL APPLICABLE FEDERAL MOTOR VEHICLE SAFETY STANDARD" and "THIS RESTRAINT IS CERTIFIED FOR USE IN MOTOR VEHICLES AND AIRCRAFT"
3. The car seat must bear two labels, although typically the text for these two required labels is merged onto one label.
4. Car seat approved for use in motor vehicles according to the UN standard ECE R 44, -03 or later series of amendments. The car seat must bear either a label showing approval of a foreign government or a label showing it was manufactured under the standards of the United Nations. The following is an example of the required labelling for a car seat manufactured under the standards of the United Nations (the "E" is consistently used in the label, but the number to the right of the "E" can change because it is the distinguishing number of the country that has granted approval):
5. Car seats approved for use in motor vehicles and aircraft according to Canadian CMVSS 213/213.1.
6. Car seats qualified for use in aircraft according to the German "Qualification Procedure for Child Restraint Systems for Use in Aircraft" (TÜV Doc.: TÜV/958-01/2001).
7. Car seats that bear a label or markings showing FAA approval through a STC. The following is an example:
8. The car seat must be clearly marked showing FAA approval under 21.305(d) and bear the label "FAA Approved in Accordance with 14 CFR 21.305(d)." The following is an example:

Question - What is the maximum number of Infants that can be booked in one booking?

Answer - The number of infants that may accompany an adult is normally a maximum of two infants per adult provided one of the infants occupies a seat. The second infant must also be over 12 months and should be able to sit in a seat with a seat belt. The second infant can then travel at a child fare. If this is not possible, the second infant is only acceptable with an accompanying adult i.e. each infant will have to travel with a separate adult. Three infants are acceptable with two adults if each adult looks after one infant during take-off and landing and if the third infant is over 12 months and is able to sit in a seat with a seat belt. Child fare will apply to the third infant. If this is not possible, the third infant is only acceptable with an accompanying adult i.e. each infant will have to travel with a separate adult.

Question - Is there any age requirement for the adult accompanying an infant?

Answer - Yes. The accompanying adult passenger must be at least 16 years of age.

Question - Do I need to purchase an aircraft seat in order to request a CRD from the airline or to use my personal car seat?

Answer - Yes. You need to pay appropriate child fare for the extra seat in case you need to use CRD or car seat for your infant.

Question - Is usage of inflatable footrests, inflatable seating equipment or foot hammocks allowed onboard?

Answer - No, inflatable footrests, inflatable seating equipment or foot hammocks are not allowed to be used onboard for adults, children or infants regardless of whether the equipment is certified or not.

Question - What are the specifications/requirements for CRDs and car seats?

Answer - CRDs are designed to safely and comfortably seat infant and children weighing from 20 – 40 pounds (9.05 kg to 18.10 kg) or 40 inches (101.6 cms.) height. Car seats are allowed for infants and children within the age group from 6 months to 36 months.
